ABOUT THE CONFERENCE

According to the United States Surgeon General, more than 14 million children and adolescents (1 in 5) in this country have a mental health disorder. Young people have mental, emotional, and behavioral problems that are real, painful, and costly. These problems can be a source of stress for children and their families, schools, and communities. Behavioral health services for children, youth, young adults, and families can be challenging, complex—and effective. The development of comprehensive services for children, youth, and young adults is essential for successfully managing behavioral health symptoms and for the well-being of individuals in the home, school, and community.

Creating Hope: Developing Communities of Care for Children, Youth, Young Adults, and Families will highlight children's services. Presenters will provide information for health care clinicians, families, and communities to promote positive behavioral health and to address children's behavioral health topics.

Keynote speaker, Marc Cherna, MSW, Director, Allegheny County Department of Human Services (DHS), will provide an overview of the work being done in Allegheny County to improve and expand the services provided to children and youth. The success of many of Allegheny County's behavioral health initiatives is well documented, and the continued growth of children and youth programs will be discussed.

Keynote speaker, Lucille Eber, EdD, Statewide Network Director, Illinois Positive Behavior Interventions and Supports Network, will present the work she is doing in Pennsylvania related to Positive Behavior Support, a proactive process for improving social competence and academic achievement, and emerging models that connect effective learning and behavior change with system-of-care principles.

Workshops will focus on:

- Adolescent substance use.
- Addressing community trauma.
- Engaging families in interventions.
- Leadership in service plans.
- The Sanctuary Model of Trauma Informed Care.
- Integrating care for foster children.
